Sheriff Somers and his assistants washed and thoroughly scrubbed the men, who are inmates of the county half, preparatory to moving them from the old prison to the new court-house building.

The women were likewise washed and bathed under the direction of Kato Burns, a female 'trusty.'

The work began early yesterday morning and continued until night. During that time, one hundred prisoners had been washed, given entire new outfits of underwear and other clothing.

Many were on the point of rebellon, but the jailers, with their stalwart assistants, shuply stripped the men and

Fox Hounds and Fox Hunting in Virginia

Mr. James Marshall Henry, of Caroline county, a well-known authority on, and a breeder of, fox hounds, has consented to furnish four articles on "Fox Hounds and Fox Hunting in Virginia," for the exclusive use of the Times-Dispatch.

These articles, which will be of interest to every sportsman, will appear in the Sunday Times-Dispatch, beginning on April 1st and concluding on April 22nd. Mr. Henry, a great-great-grandson of Patrick Henry, and a great-grandson of Chief Justice Marshall, is not only an attractive writer, but possesses a vast amount of knowledge concerning the early history of hounds in The famous "Henry Hounds," from which the equally famous "Birdsong" breed sprung, belonged to his family, and descendants of these "mighty fox chasers" are still in the kennels at "Brookneal," Mr. Henry's home in Caroline county. The articles will appeal to the practical sportsman as well as to the student, for Mr. Henry is a fox hunter in every sense of the word, having followed hounds in all parts of the country, on foot and riding over fences, and brings to his work an intimate acquaintance with the subject, such as perhaps no other man in the country possesses. The appearance of the articles will be awaited with intense interest by every fox hunter, who delights in the cry of the hounds and the long, mellow note of the horn.

Wiley Ray, brother of Samuel Ray, had been arrested by Henry Abel the night previous. Wiley Ray, it seems, was trying to borrow a small sum of money from a local merchant named Bennett. Bennet refused the loan, and Ray made an attack on him with a knife. Sam Ray was present and interfered. In the fight which ensued Samuel Ray was handled

Early yesterdity morning Sam Ray sallied forth with his Winchester looking for Policeman Abel, and is reported to have said that he would kill the officer on sight, or be killed by him. He went to Abel's house and not finding him at home he fired several shots into the house, and then proceeded towards the depot. Henry Abel, who had been warned, that Ray was looking for him, also started for the depot, accompanied by Policeman Davenport and his brother. Dr. Abel. When near the depot they were seen by Ray, who at once opened fire on them with his Winchester, and they responded. Several shots were exclusinged, one of the bullets from Ray's rifle, striking Dr. Abel's gin, and knocking the weapon from his hands. Ray was struck by a pistol shot, fired at a distance of sixty yards, and instantly killed. The ball penetrating his brain. Sam Ray was considered a dangerous man, and was an expert with the riffe.
